Mark Hanna Still Slated for Secretary of the Treasury and White for the State Department.

THE EX-SENATOR MAY BE INDUCED

TO ACCEPT OLNEY'S PLACE.

Grosvenor to Treat with Speaker Reed-The Canton Correspondents' Ready-Made Cabinet.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 .- This time the tip comes from a variety of sources that the treasury portfolio has been placed at the disposal of Mr. Mark A. Hanna, chair-Testimony of the Commissioner and man of the national Republican committee. The proposition is thus brought back to first principles. The logic of the campaign assigned him there, and the business tional was developed in the investigation of the Raines law to-day. Leonard R. and financial interests gladly acquiesced. Afterwards Mr. Dingley was slated for the job. Recent remarks of Senator Sherman, of the law, he said, were "the exposure of indignantly repelling the idea that he could be a party to a deal involving his saloons, the abolition of free lunch, which transfer from the Senate to the Departhad maintained an army of tramps; raising the license, thereby wiping out a number | ment of State in order to make a Senate of saloons that were more or less trouble- vacancy for Mr. Hanna, coupled with the candidate for re-election, is supposed to be at the bottom of the change in the Cabinet programme. Gossip had slated Mr. Dingley for the treasury portfolio, which everybody admitted would be a happy selection, both on account of the gentleman's eminent fitness for the place, and for the "You want me to use plain language, I natural agent for the promotion and maintenance of harmony between the President new law, among them exposure of the and speaker of the House of Representamemoranda showing that before May last

There is no tendency on the part of the McKinley element to do anything any friction or fighting between the White the speaker, and not the President, must statement that Mr. Reed would be reelected speaker again. This series of events would seem to indicate that subconstruction of a Cabinet, and that Mr. Dingley will be left out of consideration for secretary of the treasury, for the time being, at least. Whether he will be invited to go into the Cabinet at the head of another department remains to be seen. He is splendidly equipped to take charge of any of the great branches of the gov-ernmental machine. Mr. Hanna makes no concealment of the fact, according to Cleveland and Canton advices, that he comes on to Washington as Mr. McKinley's personal representative party leaders on questions of party policy, and incidentally to receive hints and suggestions from them on Cabinet construction and the best distribution of available high-grade Republican talent where it will best practical results. Trouble is being exclose to General Harrison are reported to have given it out that the ex-President would not accept the portfolio if it were offered him. Awarded the Portfolios. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CANTON, O., Dec. 3 .- The continual stream of politicians running to the residence of Major McKinley is keeping the newspaper Cabinet makers busy speculating on who will be the President-elect's advisers. While nothing has been said by Major McKinley to indicate that he has yet selected any member of his Cabinet, fire broke out in Mrs. Turner's confection- the correspondents here would not be surprised if some of the following-named statesmen were given the portfolios desig> nated: Secretary of State-ANDREW D. WHITE, of New York. Secretary of the Treasury-MARCUS AURELIUS HANNA, of Ohlo Postmaster General-H. CLAY EVANS. of Tennessee. Secretary of the Interior-HENRY PAYNE, of Wisconsin. Secretary of the Navy-CHARLES A. BOUTELLE, of Maine. Secretary of War-THADDEUS CLARKSON, of Iowa.

Secretary of Agriculture-SAMUEL AL-LERTON, of Illinois. Attorney General-W. R. DAY, of Ohio. Of course, the above Cabinet, as arranged by the newspaper men, is based on mere speculation, but there is good reason for believing some of the gentlemen named have been offered portfolios and have also signified their acceptance. Senator John M. Thurston, of Nebraska, accompanied by exdred occupants of the other eight buildings Representative William Mason, of Illinois, reached Canton this morning and during the day had an extended conference with the President-elect. Mr. Mason's political ambition is not directly associated with the incoming administration. He wants to succeed to the seat in the United States Senate now occupied by Senator John M Palmer. Hence, he said, his call on Major McKinley was purely of a social nature.

Senator Thurston is en route to Washington for the short session. In an interview he said he did not think the short session could pass a revenue measure which would meet with the approval of Republicans. He expressed the belief that Congress will recognize the Cuban insurgents as belligerents. He expected the recognition to occur during the short session. He said he could speak for no one Cabinet matters, but for himself, he would not accept a position if tendered him because he believed it to be his duty to remain in the Senate, where every Republican is needed. Aside from the congressmen en route to Washington and other prominent men of the party who called to see the President-elect there was an unusually large number of social callers and people who merely dropped in to shake hands with the major. In the midst of conference with Senator Thurston, ex-Representative Mason and others the major found time to most cordially greet all of these visitors. Representative R. W. Here lunch was had, following which a consultation was held on the pertinent question of the hour. Mr. Dingley will remain in the city until to-morrow owing to an attack of bronchial trouble. The best information obtainable to-night is that the conferences to-day related largely to congressional matters. No one knows the President-elect's mind on the subject, but the consensus of opinion of those here now, as well as earlier, is that the Dingley bill cannot be put through the short session, and that the conditions now seem to make a special

American Prelates and Professors Are Not to Be Reprimanded.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 .- For some time there has been periodically published dispatches pretending to come from Rome and from other points indicating proposed action on the part of the Holy See in regard to archbishops, and especially touching the faculty of the Catholic University at Washington. All sorts of reprimands, removals and even degradations were promised and the names of the recipients of such favors were given. These reports have naturally annoyed those who hold highest places in the Catholic hierarchy in America and could not fail to create displeasure in the mind even of the Pope himself. Their effect on the Pope is manifested in the following cablegram received from the papal secretary of state by Mgr. Martinelli, apostolic delegate, which needs no explanation

"The Holy Father has learned with great sorrow of the agitation created in the United States by pretended correspondents and telegrams from Rome announcing measures soon to be taken against eminent American prelates and distinguished professors of the Catholic University. Your excellency will authoritatively deny all such falsehoods, which are the product of reprehensible maneuverings.

HAVANA, Dec. 3.-While Captain General Weyler is hunting Maceo's men with a brass band in the province of Pinar del Rio the insurgents are giving the people of this city a scare. It was reported "officially" by the Spanish authorities last night that a small band of insurgents had When seen by a reporter Senator McBride said: "There is nothing political in our visit to Major McKinley. On the other hand, the insurgents are said to have burned seventy-four houses in Guanabacca instead of one house, as the official report stated. Guanabacoa is only five miles east of Havana, and has a population of about 30,000.

Further details state that the attack began at 10:30 on Tuesday night. The insurgents first fired on the Spanish outposts of the city and suburbs and, in spite of the prompt precautions taken by the military commander and the fact that the local garrisons were almost immediately placed under arms to repel the invaders, the latter, after an hour's skirmish, broke through the Spanish picket lines, entered the city Aguacate and Palo Blanco streets. These thoroughfares, as a rule, contained private residences or cheap buildings occupied by refugees. Only one store of importance was burned, it is said, although the insurgents made many efforts to set fire to other stores. The local authorities are doing everything possible to conceal the real facts in the case; but there is no doubt that they have received a bad scare and that the insurgents have demonstrated that it would not be a very difficult matter, in spite of the reports of the military commanders, to create just such another "scare," to say the least, in the city of Havana itself. Private advices from Santiago de Cuba say that the province of Puerto Principe has been exceedingly quiet since the last engagement of General Castellanos with said to be divided. Garcia is reported to be returning eastward, while Gomez is moving west to reinvade the province of Santa Clara. The latest advices indicate that Gomez crossed the trocha between Jucaro and Moron when the military train there was dynamited recently.

Official dispatches dated Nov. 28 say that the local Spanish guerrillas of Remedios and Caibaron, mistaking each other for insurgents, have had a serious encounter in which nine men were killed and fifteen

General Ynclan, in Pinar del Rio, reports say, has arrived at Artemisa with one hundred sick soldiers brought in in cars from Cayajabos. The battalion of Asturias alone is said to have 489 men on the sick list in Pinar del Río hospitals. Artemisa advices announce the concenration of insurgents in the rear of the eastern part of the trocha.

Dr. Perna, a druggist named Figueron, Navarro and sixteen other promi residents of Cienfuegos have been placed ider arrest. The government will establish a oulsory conscription to the militia of those between eighteen and forty-five years of age. The provisions apply to Spanish residents and natives. About thirty thousand Spanish residents of Havana, it is reported, have volunteered. Captain General Weyler has ordered the mayor of Los Palacios, in Pinar del Rio. to establish zones in his territory to be given over to cultivation, the ground used as government camps and the abandoned farms to be allowed to the cultivators free of charge for two years during the war and six months afterwards. This, it is expected, will do much to alleviate the great misery now prevailing in that section.

SCARE AT HAVANA. Noise of the Bombardment of Guanabacao Heard at the Capital.

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 3.-Advices received from Havana by the steamer Olivette state that on Tuesday the vanguard of the army of Gomez encamped near Guanabacao, which is just across the bay from Havana. On Wednesday at noon the insurgents began to bombard Guanabacao. The roar of the guns was heard easily in Havana and threw the royalists of the capital into a panie. Many houses were fired by the shells from the insurgents' cannon, and the smoke and firmes were visible to the people in Havana.

The Spaniards in Havana were greatly alarmed, as they believed that the bombardment of Guanabacao was only preliminary to an attack upon the metropolis.

WEYLER'S TROOPS DEFEATED. Macco's Men Said to Have Been Victorious in a Fight.

The palace people seemed more than usually vigilant and active to-day, which is, signimeant.

What the Principals and Others Say About the Fight-Referee Earp Arrested-Physicians' Bulletin.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3 .- The city is divided as to the result of the Fitzsimmons-Sharkey fight, which continues to be the topic of the hour. No one questions that Fitzsimmons had the fight practically won in the eighth round and many assert that he was unjustly deprived of the deconservatively on the question.
An editorial in La Lucha deals with the cision. Sharkey's friends vehemently assert that he was knocked out by a foul blow and was, consequently, under the rules, entitled to the honors of victory, including the Venezuelan question and England's recognition of the Monroe doctrine makes the purse of $10,000. A third class base their opinions solely on the reports of the physicians in attendance upon Sharkey. The doctors point to the swollen and discolored condition of the sailor's skin in foul blow and some ardent Fitzsimmons men reply that this condition was purposely caused by an injection of a drug immediately after the fight. A number of physicians and newspaper men were present in Sharkews room this afternoon when an examination of his injuries was made. All said they were convinced that Sharkey's condition was the result of foul blow. Many prominent men, however, condemn the decision and refuse to believe that there was any fouling. Such men as Police Commissioner Gunst, Riley Grannan, Major Frank McLaughlin, who was chairman of the Republican state central committee, and others, believe that Fitzsimmons should have received the decision. It is pointed out that the whole affair has a

The facts are cited that Lynch, Sharkey's backer, refused to consider the name of any one as referee, declined every man suggested by Julian and refused to suggest any man himself, leaving the selection with the few individuals comprising the National Club. As soon as the club announced its no part in the war.

But General Maceo seems with more Sharkey money offered than could be well handled. It is recounted that there were whispers yesterday afternoon exterminating many of the Spaniards. The that Sharkey would be favored in the decision and these rumors, reaching "Fitz's" ears, he requested the club to substitute any one else as referee. Even at the ringside, when both Julian and Fitzsimmon Earp stood quietly by and insisted on acting as referee, despite the protests. pointed out that Fitzsimmons fought s lean, skillful, scientific and winning tle, while Sharkey's fighting was rough and unfair. For his unfairness it is charge that Sharkey was not even reproved by the referee It is claimed that the upper cut on Sharkey's chin in the eighth round was really a knockout blow and that no foul blow was delivered by Fitz, but that Sharkey, when knocked out, alleged foul blow as an excuse. All this constitutes the case of Fitzsimmons, by which his attorneys expect to prove the existence of a conspiracy to deprive Fitzsimmons of Tom Sharkey was a somewhat dilapidated-looking pugilist as he lay on his bed to-day. The only visible bruises were two on the left side of his face-one a cut which had rather neatly divided his 'eft eyebrow lengthwise. "He gave me that cut with elbow when he fouled me early the fight," said Sharkey. The doctors made no objection to ing not only the condition of key's face, but also of his body. In doing so they called attention to the fact that there was nothing to indicate that he had received any particular punishment pre-vicus to the striking of the blow which ended the fight. This seemed to be the fact, for there were no discolorations or bruises at all upon Sharkey's body except at the point below the belt where the alleged foul blow is said to have larded. Here there was a decided swelling and other evidences of injury which it was easy to conceive would have prevented a man from continuing a boxing match or any form of exertion. "I was all right up to the time I got that foul lick." Sharkey said in answer to a question. "I had not been hurt at all." The three physicians all concurred in the statement, made very posi-tively, that Sharkey had been fouled, physical evidences, they considered, being indisputable. "He was hit there, and hit hard," said Dr. Ragan,

WHAT FITZSIMMONS SAYS. Fitzsimmons said to-night: "I fell in among a gang of thieves. I came out here to San Francisco expecting to get a square deal, but I made a mistake, as I was made the homes of leading Cuban families are the victim of one of the meanest jobs ever put through on earth. The referee was selected to give a decision against me and he carried out his part of the programme. So far as I am concerned I can say that I never fought fairer in my life, while Sharkey fouled me deliberately at least twenty times. I appealed to the referee, but he took no notice of my protests and told me to go on and fight. Once in a clinch Earp tried to separate us by pressing his hand against my face. His finger nails penetrated my eye and cut the flesh on the inside of the lid. Sharkey is a hard nut. He don't know much about fighting, however, but relies on brute strength and foul tactics, and a crooked referee to win. "If I don't get this light and never enter the ring again," resumed Bob, never enter the ring again," resumed Bob, "a" begins to look to me as if the people begins to look to me as if the people begins to look to me as if the people.
